What is eyelid surgery?

Eyelid surgery, also known as blepharoplasty, is a cosmetic procedure that aims to improve the appearance of the eyelids by removing excess skin, fat, and muscle from the upper and/or lower eyelids.

Am I a good candidate for eyelid surgery in Portland, Oregon?

Good candidates for eyelid surgery are individuals who have droopy or sagging eyelids, excess skin around the eyes, puffiness, or bags under the eyes. It is important to have realistic expectations and be in good overall health before considering this procedure.

How long does the eyelid surgery procedure take?

The duration of eyelid surgery can vary depending on the complexity of the case, but typically it takes around one to two hours to complete.

Is eyelid surgery painful?

The procedure is usually performed under local anesthesia, ensuring that you won't feel any pain during the surgery. However, you may experience some mild discomfort, swelling, and bruising during the recovery period.

What is the recovery process like?

After eyelid surgery, it is common to experience bruising, swelling, and mild discomfort, which can be managed with pain medication and cold compresses. Most patients can resume normal activities within a week or two, but it may take a few weeks for the swelling to fully subside.

Are there any risks or potential complications associated with eyelid surgery?

As with any surgical procedure, there are potential risks and complications associated with eyelid surgery. These may include infection, bleeding, scarring, dry eyes, temporary or permanent changes in vision, and asymmetry. However, these risks can be minimized by choosing a skilled and experienced surgeon.

Will insurance cover the cost of eyelid surgery?

In general, eyelid surgery is considered a cosmetic procedure and is not covered by insurance. However, if the surgery is being performed to correct a functional problem, such as impaired vision due to droopy eyelids, insurance coverage may be possible. It is best to consult with your insurance provider to determine coverage.

How long do the results of eyelid surgery last?

The results of eyelid surgery are long-lasting, but the natural aging process will continue. Although the procedure is not permanent, it can significantly improve the appearance of the eyelids for many years.

Where can I find a reputable eyelid surgery provider in Portland, Oregon?
